ZEBRA'S Ecosystem

Zebras live mostly in dry lands like Africa. Grevy's zebra's are mostly found in northern Kenya. Since zebras live in dry lands they don't get much water to drink and they can only go three days without water. One other specie of zebras are called the mountain zebra witch lives in south Africa. A Burchel's zebra (also called the plains zebra) is the most widespread zebra out of all of their species. A ecosystem is a place were animals live and interact with other animals.

ZEBRA'S ADAPTATIONS

Zebras life span is up to 20 years mostly because of their adaptations. Zebras main source of food is grass. They have good teeth to eat and chew grass. Most of their predators are leopards, hyenas, dogs, crocodiles, and zebras main predator is the lion. Zebras have their stripes because it confuses their predators so they don't find them as easily.

Human Interactions

Most zebras don't really even go up to humans because they are depressed by the loss of their habitat. Even if zebras get up to humans they aren't that friendly because their habitat is getting dry and dead. Also zebras and people do interact with each other but only if you are nice to the zebra.
